1- What is the significance of studying integumentary system in terms of a. Nursing Studying the integumentary system helps nurses effectively manage patient skin health. It aids in preventing infections, recognizing systemic issues present on the skin, and providing proper wound care.

b. Student life?

Studying the integumentary system is personally important because it is the body's first line of defense. It helps enhance our diagnostic skills related to skin conditions and provides foundational knowledge to when we work in a hospital.
